Maternal and Child Health Month

Linked through sister cities, Rotarians save newborns in Brazil

A mother is in labor, and she's frightened. Her baby isn't due for three months. The closest hospital is 30 miles away, and although she makes it there in time, the baby is born weighing barely 2 pounds.

And there's another problem.

The hospital's neonatal intensive care unit has only seven incubators, and all are in use, so the baby must be transferred to another hospital to receive the critical care he needs. If he survives the transfer, his parents will need to find a way to make trips to that hospital for months.

Many new mothers were facing similar situations at Dr. Leopoldo Bevilacqua Regional Hospital, a state-run facility in Brazil's Ribeira Valley. Lack of equipment meant some of the hospital's most vulnerable newborns had to be transferred, which was a factor in São Paulo state's high infant mortality rate.

By adding five incubators to the NICU, the hospital nearly doubled the number of babies its nurses and doctors can care for.

Rotarians funded incubators, ventilators, heated cribs, vital-sign monitors, and other equipment for a state-run hospital outside São Paulo.

"There are two realities here: people who can pay for a private hospital and those who can't," says Lina Shimizu, who spearheaded the project for the Rotary Club of Registro-Ouro, Brazil.

"There are two realities here: people who can pay for a private hospital and those who can't," says Lina Shimizu, who spearheaded the project for the Rotary Club of Registro-Ouro, Brazil. Those who can't, she says, often have to travel long distances to get to a state-run hospital such as Leopoldo Bevilacqua, which serves 24 towns.

The Rotary Club of Registro-Ouro and the Rotary Club of Registro partnered on a Rotary Foundation global grant with two clubs in Nakatsugawa, Japan.

Through the partnership, Brazilian Rotarians raised $172,500. They funded equipment including five incubators for the hospital's neonatal intensive care unit (NICU), which nearly doubled the hospital's capacity to care for fragile newborns. In 2013, 129 babies were admitted to the NICU; since the completion of the project, the hospital has been able to care for about 220 babies per year.

Other equipment provided through the grant included five ventilators, a bilirubin meter, three heated cribs, five vital-sign monitors, and a super LED microprocessed phototherapy unit to treat babies with jaundice. The grant also funded the cost of publicity to inform residents about prenatal care workshops conducted by area health workers. The publicity campaign aimed to reach mothers in remote areas who may not know what services are available to them or about the importance of prenatal care and breast-feeding.

This global grant marked a turning point for Rotarians in Nakatsugawa, who had stopped contributing to international projects after experiencing difficulties on a past grant. The difference this time was in the relationship between the cities of Registro and Nakatsugawa, which established a "sister city" affiliation in 1980.

Rotarians from both cities meet regularly to foster their friendships, alternating between Brazil and Japan, and because of their close relationship, the Japanese Rotarians felt confident that their financial contributions to the project would be managed well. In addition, Shimizu, who is of Japanese descent and speaks fluent Japanese, helped build trust and effective communication.

A group of Japanese Rotarians visited the NICU after the project was completed. "After 37 years," says Mitsuo Hara, a member of the Rotary Club of Nakatsugawa, "there's a friendship and bond between Rotary members of both countries."

By adding five incubators to the NICU, the hospital nearly doubled the number of babies its nurses and doctors can care for.

Excellent and informative program at yesterday's Woodbury Rotary Lunch Club meeting. Dr. Harsh Patel, DPM (Doctor of Podiatric Medicine), AACFAS (trained in foot and ankle surgery) spoke to the club on Foot Care with an emphasis on the Diabetic and Foot care. Guest of Rotarian and patient Herbert A Budd Jr. (diabetic) Dr. Patel captivated his audience with his talk which focused on the surgical and non surgical treatments of the foot. His office is located at 722 Mantua Pike in Woodbury Hts and I think he may have gained a few new patients

Wanda Budd-McIvaine

Although heel spurs are often painless, they can cause heel pain. They are frequently associated with plantar fasciitis, a painful inflammation of the fibrous band of connective tissue (plantar fascia) that runs along the bottom of the foot and connects the heel bone to the ball of the foot.

Taking care of your feet in diabetes

- 1 Wash your feet daily with lukewarm water and soap.
- 2 Dry your feet well especially between the toes.
- 3 Apply moisturising lotion, but do not apply between the toes.
- 4 Check your feet for blisters, cuts, redness, etc. If present, consult your doctor.
- 5 Trim your nails straight across and file the edge with a nail file.
- 6 Change socks daily; avoid dirty and tight socks.
- 7 Never walk barefoot either indoors or outdoors.
- 8 Examine your shoes daily for cracks, stones, nails which may irritate feet.

Today Dr. John William "Doc" Holdcraft was presented a Paul Harris Fellow recognition by the Woodbury Rotary Club. The PHF was awarded to Doc as a symbol of our appreciation of his years of service to the Woodbury Rotary Club
